TROOPS RUSHED TO SAVE TEXANS

General Bliss Ordered to Send Force to Carrizo Springs to Check Bandits' Attack.

TOWN APPEALS TO GARNER

Pleads With Congressman to Furnish Guards Against Mexican Peril.

A Texas town, Carrizo Springs, is in grave fear of an attack by Mexican bandits, and Congressman Garner, who represents that district in Congress, has been appealed to by citizens for cavalry troops to protect it.

Acting on Congressman Garner's request, the War Department has instructed General Bliss, at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., to rush the desired cavalry to guard the town.

Bandits Put In Jail.

Sixteen Mexican bandits now are in jail in Carrizo Springs following a fight with a Texas sheriff's posse yesterday. Threats from members of the band who escaped that they would cross the border and release the imprisoned men, roused the fears of the Carrizo Springs citizens.

The protection of the Government was sought by the people of Carrizo Springs through the following telegram to Congressman Garner, made public today at that place:

"Sixteen Mexican bandits, armed, organized, and with a strange flag were captured by a sheriff's posse, killing two and wounding others in a desperate fight here. Their indictment and trial for murder will follow immediately. There are persistent rumors that an organized band from Mexico will cross to the rescue of the bandits in jail here. Conditions are critical.
There is intense anxiety. The town is defenseless. Please urge the sending of cavalry troops for our protection immediately."

Followed Assassination.
Congressman Garner declares that the attack followed the assassination of Deputy Sheriff Ortiz, of Dimmitt coun-

FATHER IS KILLED AT HIS SON'S PARTY

Falls Dead After Argument About Playing "In My Harem"—Boy Is Arrested.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—An argument which started between father and son at 3 o'clock this morning as to whether it was sacrilegious to play "In My Har-em" on a phonograph on the Sabbath, terminated with the death of the older man, Edward W. Brown, at his home and the arrest of his son Edgar, on a charge of having caused his death.

The son was celebrating a birthday party Saturday evening, and the party lasted through until 3 o'clock this morning, when the father entered and demanded that the music stop. A quarrel followed, the father and son grappled, the elder's death resulting.

Police today would not make public the nature of the blow which is claimed to have killed the older Brown, who was a wealthy auditor, and all the witnesses are being detained.

Envoy May Rise by Washington Marriage

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 14.—Giusseppe Cattalini, counselor of the Italian embassy, who married Susan Dimock, daughter of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, at Elsinore, last week, may win a promotion to the rank of minister by his marriage. The foreign office at Rome is looking for rich men to serve as diplomats, and overtures are said to have been already made. Cattalini's bride receives an income of $30,000 a year from a trust fund left by her father.

Mrs. Dimock has returned to Washington, and is planning to build a home for her new son and daughter.

Women Refuse to Join Sex Play War

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—Announcement was made by Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald, acting president of the Ebell Club, that sex plays will not be barred or their production censored.

This came about after the reading of letters at an executive meeting of the Ebell board asking that concerted censorship and opposition to such plays as "The Lure," "The Traffic," and "The Girl in the Taxi," and other plays of that nature be taken.

AGED MAN DIES AS HOTEL BURNS

T. M. Palmatory Perishes in Flames Which Destroy Berlin, Md., Building.

OTHERS NARROWLY ESCAPE

Guests Forced to Climb From Windows in Night Clothes.
Loss About $15,000.

BERLIN, Md., Sept. 14.—In a fire which destroyed the Park Hotel here early this morning, Theodore M. Palmatory, seventy-two years old, was burned to death, and a number of other persons escaped only after climbing in their night clothes from the windows of the burning building.

For nearly an hour, despite the heroic efforts of the Berlin volunteer fire department, a large section of the town was threatened with destruction, as a high wind swept the blaze toward nearby buildings. The hotel loss will amount to about $15,000.

Sleeping Guests Aroused.

The blaze was discovered about 3 o'clock this morning by Miss Mary Anderson, one of the oldest residents of Berlin, who lives at the Atlantic Hotel a short distance from the burned building.

Seeing the flames through one of the windows of the Park Hotel, she aroused H. F. Harmonson, former State game warden, who owns the Atlantic Hotel.
Harmonson ran to the Park Hotel and broke down the front door, giving the first alarm to sleeping occupants of the burning building.

Responding to the alarm sounded by Harmonson, a number of men entered the hotel and continued to arouse the guests.

The fire gained rapid headway, and it soon became apparent that it was useless to try to save the building.
Thomas Savage was proprietor of the burned structure.

THAW'S ATTORNEYS MAP OUT ACTION

Scene of Case to Shift Tomorrow to Littleton, N. H.—Aid for Prisoner Seen.

COLEBROOK, N. H., Sept. 14.—Tomorrow afternoon the scene of action in the Thaw case will likely change from here to Littleton, N. H. Should the defense serve the writ of habeas corpus today, as it is expected they will, Thaw will be brought before Judge Aldrich on Tuesday morning.

A special United States marshal is expected here today with the proper papers to serve on Jerome and other officials in charge of Thaw. Thaw's lawyers assembled in his room at the Monadnock Hotel today to decide when to serve the writ.

Thaw will, then, be in joint custody of Sheriff Drew and a United States marshal, who will take him to Littleton.

Requisition papers signed by Acting Governor Glynn have not yet been served on Governor Felt, and will not be until some time tomorrow or Tuesday.
The defense has practically been assured by Governor Felt that they will be given the right to appear before him and explain their stand.

Feeling in favor of Thaw seems to be growing, and yesterday in almost every town of importance in the State of New Hampshire petitions were being circulated to be forwarded to Governor Felder asking him not to turn him over to New York authorities.

Habeas corpus proceedings now under way before Judge Aldrich appear to be bothering Jerome. While he thinks it inconceivable that Judge Aldrich would sustain such writ, he admits that if it were granted, Thaw would be free in any State of the Union, as Judge Aldrich is a Federal court judge.

Hundreds View Body Of Dead Congressman

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Hundreds of friends of the late Timothy D. Sullivan, Representative in Congress, thronged the Sullivan Clubhouse, 207 Bowery, today to view the body, which lies in state.

The family have asked that the funeral be private. The body will be taken to the home of Mrs. Timothy P.
Sullivan, widow of "Little Tim" Sullivan, 222 East Twelfth street, and burial probably will be tomorrow.

Miss Aida V. Sullivan, who says she is an adopted daughter of Sullivan, is said to be on her way to the Pacific Coast with a vaudeville company.

pute over a decision in a baseball game day, John G. Bracker, real estate broker, dropped dead from heart disease. He became excited while arguing with the umpire.

Newlyweds on Long Hike for Honeymoon

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 14.—Two pairs of newlyweds on a unique honeymoon passed through this city over the national road for Washington, Pa.
They are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kline, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Lou Ross, and they are on a 1,000-mile hike from Fort Wayne, Ind.

They undertook the long walk at the suggestion of the manager of a sporting goods store in Fort Wayne, who agreed to divide $1,000 among the four if they succeed in making the trip in ninety days. Under the conditions they were compelled to start without a cent. They are earning money for the necessary expenses of the trip by selling postal cards.

Congressmen to Go To Sullivan Funeral

Members of the special committee of twenty from Congress will leave Washington tonight for New York to attend the funeral of "Big Tim" Sullivan at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The committee was appointed on motion of Congressman Gittins of New York, and resolutions of regret were adopted last night before the House adjourning out of respect to "Big Tim's" memory.

vices will be conducted until the completion of the upper portion of the build-

GIRLS DEFY THE COLD IN SWIM ACROSS BASIN

Dozen Devotees to Annette Kellerman's Art Enjoy Trip From Bath House to Bridge—Miss Anita Torrey Wins First Honors.

By EDITH LOBERT.

Where it was deep it was awful cold.
But a trifling matter of a 52-degree temperature on shore didn't deter a dozen Washington fair swimmers from breaking a few records on the basin of the tidal reservoir this morning.

Miss Anita Torrey was the first to cross the course, making the distance of more than 3,000 feet in twenty-five minutes.

Mrs. W. B. Hudson, who chaperoned the party, was second to reach the shore near the Potomac bridge, Miss Kathryn Drain finished third, and Miss Louise Corson was fourth.

"Adamless Eden? What an Ideal!"

DENVER, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Kate T.
Wolsey, of New York, who has offered to subscribe $50,000 to found a college of women that would be a real Adam-less Eden, need expect no help in her project from Denver women.

"I am going to the colony when it is organized," announced State Senator Helen Kling Robinson, "to write an article about it, not to stay. I might stand it a little while. I could bear having men around less, but I like to see them at dinner sometimes. An Adamless Eden might be an interesting experiment, but I'm sure it would not be an interesting place to live in, at least not to me. There are women who have 'spinster souls'; they can live without the society of men and not be unhappy. I frankly admit I have not a 'spinster soul.'"

Mrs. Lester C. Thomas, bride of a few months, exclaimed: "Goodness, what an ideal!" when told of the Adamless colony. "What a perfectly awful place it will be! Why, there'll never be any harmony. Every woman will want her own way."

Bank Embezzler Gives Himself Up

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 14.—Twenty years ago a leading church worker, citizen and financier, and most of those years an embezzler, M. L. Woods, of this city, has returned and surrendered.

While $120,000 is the immediate loss the total amount embezzled from the State National Bank, of which he was vice president, may reach $500,000.

Woods' salary was only $250 per month, despite his high position, yet he had been paying out $500 a month on property investments for a number of years.

His son, Baldwin M. Woods, professor of mathematics in the University of California, wired here several days ago that his father had confessed a shortage of $130,000, and would surrender.

The deposits of the State National amount to $1,850,000, while its capital and surplus amount to $500,000.

CONFESSION OF PRIEST SOLVES MURDER MYSTERY

Schmidt Killed Girl in Apartment, Then Cut Up Body and Threw Pieces Into Hudson River.
Tells Details to Detectives Who Take Him to Scenes of Crime.

ARREST AT HIS HOME AT NIGHT BRINGS SENSATIONAL STORY TO LIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The most gruesome murder since the killing of Goldsavage was revealed today when Hans Schmidt, a priest, thirty-two years old, confessed to the slaying and cutting up of the body of Anna Annulder, twenty-one years old, in a flat at 68 Broadhurst avenue, where he was living with her.

His confession clears the mystery of the torso found in the North river a week ago sewed in a pillow case, the identity of which has been a puzzle ever since its discovery.

The slain girl had been employed at the parish house of St. Boniface's Church, Forty-seventh street and Second avenue, where Schmidt became acquainted with her some time ago. She disappeared about two weeks ago.

Schmidt, who lives in the parish house of St. Joseph's Church, at 405 West 125th street, was arrested shortly after midnight by Inspector Faurot and charged with the murder.

BREAKS DOWN IN FRENZY OF FEAR.

He broke down and in a wild frenzy of fear made a complete confession so horrifying in its details that the inspector could only compare it to the ravings of a madman.

He told how he had fallen in love with the pretty girl who had been in this country only three years, how he had rented a flat and furnished it, how he had previously married the girl with a ceremony self performed, and how finally he had entered the flat at midnight August 31 armed with a new butcher knife.

"Anna was asleep," he cried, pacing the floor and wringing his hands. "I entered softly and she awoke and recognized me. 'Anna,' I said, 'I love you dearly. I am now going to prove it.'"

He then seized her by the hair and drawing the knife cut her throat from ear to ear.

He then dragged the body to the little bathroom and taking a new saw which he had purchased with the knife, he proceeded to dismember the still warm flesh.

"First," he says in his confession, "I cut off her arms and having laid them aside cut off her legs close to the trunk, and in all I made five bundles of the body."

While he was telling this part of the story, Inspector Faurot could hardly credit his ears. Schmidt's eye-blazed and his voice broke as he related these gruesome details of his cold-blooded deed.

Having cut up the body the slayer was seized with the terrible fear of discovery. He ran about the apartment like a madman trying to think how to get rid of the bloody witnesses of his deed.

All night he considered, then he decided definitely on his action.

DETERMINED TO THROW PIECES IN HUDSON.

He wrapped the portions of the body in sheets and pillow slips and determined to throw them into the Hudson.

On the following evening he carried the torso from the apartment. It was carefully wrapped up in a pillow slip and he waited until he thought the coast was clear before descending the three flights of stairs with the heavy bundle. Having reached the street unseen he made his way to an Eighth avenue car, boarded it, rode to 125th street, transferred to a crostown car, and proceeded to the Fort Lee ferry.

Standing on the rear end of the boat he waited until it reached midstream and then leaning over quietly dropped
